Whitepaper of the Week: The newly published Security Advisor Recommendations for Surface Pro 3 provides valuable information for professionals on how to protect your devices by choosing the right security solutions. The whitepaper goes in-depth into the recommended security solutions for Surface Pro 3. First, the idea. I wanted a series of letters that allows me to create a story or narrative with clues scattered throughout, similar to the LSD based experience/process of Blue Whale.

And then I thought, wait a minute... what if I could make one of the letters be a person, and I like writing, and I like very much searching the internet and collecting information on different things. The first person letter did not go well. I started planning for the next. But I thought I should make the pieces like I make my running shoes... I will not use the same design more than once or twice. So, I came up with this. The second person letter is already written. The third person letter... you will have to wait. But, I'll let you know when it's been edited. The New York Times
