action, but you've already hinted at the problem by saying that AzzyAI is based off of AI.lua. Ah, the joys of computer science. It's a grand thing if you want to understand it, but it's also a bit of a curse, because we had to implement new things that were based on assumptions that we didn't understand, and as a result we ended up with something that was really quite complicated. If you want to see an API that's kind of like AI.lua, check out the dsmania/magnum server. It uses the magnum scripting system, which is quite similar to AI.lua. Magnum is another scripting language. Ah, and the dsmania/magnum server is based on c6a93da74d
